21. In the event of a misfire (or charge failing to explode properly) having occurred or being suspected, the blaster should be the first to re-enter the working place. He should search for the misfire and, if nesessary, may have the place cleaned up for the purpose: but he should permit no other work.

22. As soon as the misfire has been found, the blaster should refire it without delay, for which purpose he should insert a fresh primer with detonator and fuse in the hole. If necessary, the tamping may be gently removed with a wooden or copper scraper, but not the paper wad.

23. Boring out or deepening holes once charged or withdrawing a charge either before firing after misfire, must not be attempted.

24. The person in charge of the working place should point out the position and direction of every new hole to be drilled and should be responsible that the drillers do not deviate therefrom. The greatest care should be taken to see that no new hole is bored in such a direction that it can come in dangerous proximity to any old hole or socket in which explosives have previously been charged.

25. A fuse which has apparently missed or is hanging fire should not be approached for at least half an hour.

26. The burning capacity and steady consumption of any fuse employed and its requisite length have to be carefully studied and noted before use, and only fuses of known quality and rate of burning should be used.

By Order,
N. RAMA RAO,
Secretary to Government,
Development Departments.
